India signs deal with US to buy Javelin anti-tank missiles

'New Opportunities For Def Industries To Work Together'

The missile has been designed to defeat heavily armoured vehicles as well as a wider range of targets, the US embassy said

New Delhi: India has sealed a deal with the US to procure Javelin anti-tank guided missile systems to bolster the Indian Army's combat strength, the US embassy said Friday. The embassy said it welcomed the Indian Army's signing of a letter of offer and acceptance (LOA) for purchase of the missile system through the US foreign military sales process.

"This agreement reflects a defence partnership that is growing deeper, more capable, and more consequential," US ambassador to India Sergio Gor said, adding, "The pact demonstrates the depth of US support for Indian Army and creates new opportunities for our defense industries to work together." "We see tremendous potential for future cooperation that strengthens the defence industrial bases of both countries," he said. However, neither the US embassy nor India's defence ministry has given the number of Javelin systems India is procuring or the overall cost of the procurement.

The landmark agreement also opened discussions on mutually beneficial co-production and additional opportunities to strengthen the defence industrial bases of both countries, the US embassy said. Javelin is a single man-portable fire-and-forget anti-tank missile built to take on armoured threats with precision. It is used by the US Army, US Marine Corps and numerous international customers and designed for use against a wide array of targets, including armoured vehicles and fortified positions. The embassy said the missile has been designed to defeat heavily armoured vehicles as well as a wider range of battlefield targets. The fire-and-forget guidance means soldiers don't have to remain exposed after launch.

India faced prolonged delays and cancellations in acquiring modern third-generation ATGMs due to factors like hurdles over technology transfer and cost, a policy shift and a push for indigenous development. The fire-and-forget guidance means soldiers don't have to remain exposed after launch.

Expert's opinion to HC contradicts govt stand on patented cancer drug

Rema.Nagarajan
@timesofindia.com

Contradicting the govt claim that generic breast cancer drug palbociclib can be used as an alternative to patented drugs in the same group, oncologist and Magsaysay award winner Dr R Ravi Kannan has opined that these drugs are not interchangeable. He explained ribociclib benefits early-stage breast cancer and can reduce recurrence and improve overall survival while palbociclib trials have shown that it has no role in early breast cancer treatment. Dr Kannan, director of Cachar Cancer Hospital and Research Centre, Silchar, gave his opinion in a case before the Kerala high court filed by a patient seeking access to expensive patented breast cancer drugs. After the patient's death, the court took it up suo moto in public interest. It concerned the most common breast cancer subtype, hormone receptor positive and HER2-negative tumors.

The petition sought a govt use licence under Section 100 of Patent Act to enable access to ribociclib, a patented drug, at affordable prices. However, govt refused to issue a govt use licence stating that breast cancer did not constitute a matter of national emergency and that National Cancer Institute in Jhajjar, and Chittaranjan National Cancer Institute in Kolkata had said that generic palbociclib could be used as an alternative to ribociclib.

Dr Kannan's letter stated that despite palbociclib, abemaciclib and ribociclib being CDK4/6 inhibitors, they "cannot be interchanged in the early breast cancer (adjuvant) setting". He cited the trial which showed that adding abemaciclib to endocrine therapy significantly reduced recurrence, and extended follow up of seven years showed significant invasive disease-free survival and improved overall survival. He also cited trials that found that giving ribociclib for three years along with non-steroidal aromatase inhibitor, a type of hormone therapy drug used to treat hormone receptor-positive breast cancer, significantly improved the outcomes. The trial showed significant improvement in invasive disease-free survival and reduction in recurrence of the cancer in parts of the body far from the original breast tumor. He added that two large trials had shown that palbociclib in early breast cancer did not show similar advantages.

Citing the trial results, Dr Kannan stated that the approval of generic palbociclib in India should not be seen as providing an equivalent adjuvant option. "Clinicians must use the evidence-based drugs--abemaciclib or ribociclib — when indicated for high risk early-stage patients, since palbociclib's adjuvant trials showed no benefit," stated the letter. He pointed out that the high cost of abemaciclib and ribociclib meant that vast numbers of high-risk patients who could benefit from these drugs simply could not obtain them. Ribociclib is over Rs 78,400 per month and Abemaciclib Rs 47,700 to Rs 95,500 per month.

Nilekani panel seeks ideas to secure exams

New Delhi: The task force set up by Centre to overhaul India's public examination system opened a nationwide consultation Friday, seeking suggestions from students, parents, teachers and other stakeholders on making high-stakes tests more secure, transparent and student-friendly, report Manash Gohain & Bharti Jain.

The panel, headed by Infosys co-founder Nandan Nilekani, was announced by PM Modi last month amid heightened scrutiny of the examination system following the NEET-UG paper leak controversy.

The task force's mandate is to "examine and recommend comprehensive reforms relating to conduct, security, design and governance of public examinations, the ministry of personnel said.

The panel, which seeks "to benefit from the experience, knowledge and perspectives of stakeholders", said the suggestions may dwell on the conduct and security of public exams as well as the test design and assessment methodology. Stakeholders may give inputs on better governance, accountability and institutional arrangements; as well as systems to prevent, detect and redress examination malpractices, the ministry said.

The public consultation will remain open till Sept 13, with citizens allowed to send suggestions through WhatsApp, a dedicated website, email and a toll-free number.

Clean energy push unfair on developing nations: CJI

New Delhi: CJI Surya Kant Friday told Commonwealth countries it was unfair that industrialised nations, who took two centuries to adopt clean energy, were asking nations in the process of industrialisation to move towards renewable energy within decades, reports Dhananjay Mahapatra. Speaking at the Commonwealth Secretariat in London, CJI Kant said, "Countries that are finally industrialising are being asked to move rapidly towards renewable power, and are often made to bear the brunt of criticism when they cannot move fast enough. In comparison, the nations urging that transition spent two centuries building their own strength on coal and oil." Developing countries faced myriad challenges depending on their geographical locations, and pushing them towards clean energy at an unrealistic pace could create more challenges than solutions, he added. 'Will Modi govt alter facts by pressuring publishers?

Interestingly, the United States publisher of the memoir, Alfred A Knopf, is also a division of Penguin Random House. The international launch of 'Belonging: A Journey in Love', featuring a photo of a young Sonia on its cover, is scheduled for Nov 10. There is a question mark over who the Indian rights of 'Belonging' belong to, but the buzz is that HarperCollins may bag them.

Gehlot also questioned why PRHI wanted changes to the Indian edition if Knopf was ready to publish the book worldwide in its original form. "What is the reason or what pressure is there that what is being published across the world cannot be published in India?" he asked.

"Why is this truth being hidden from the people of India? Will the Modi govt alter even the facts by pressuring publishers?" he added.

There is a question mark over who the Indian rights of 'Belonging' belong to, but the buzz is that HarperCollins may bag them

Gehlot said the integrity and dignity with which Sonia had served the country were exemplary. "Suppressing the book of a person of such stature, a senior leader of the nation, and former leader of the opposition, under pressure is tantamount to the murder of freedom of expression," he said.

Deputy leader of the opposition in Lok Sabha Gaurav Gogoi said, "No doubt there are those in the BJP govt who have now become afraid of a book being read by the people of India."

Congress, from its official social media handle to frontal organisations such as Seva Dal, lashed out at what it called the BJP's attempt to sabotage the book of a senior national figure.The public consultation will remain open till Sept 13, with citizens allowed to send suggestions through WhatsApp, a dedicated website, email and a toll-free number. The task force includes former Isro chairperson S Somanath, former IB director Tapan Deka, IIT Madras director V Kamakoti, former education secretary Anita Karwal and logistics expert Amrit Lal Meena.

RSS weekly expands 'dimagi Naxal' label

New Delhi: RSS has joined the campaign against "dimagi Naxals" which PM Narendra Modi launched on Aug 15, with its affiliated weekly Organiser arguing that the Sonia Gandhi-led National Advisory Council (NAC) under UPA allowed Maoist-influenced thinking to enter policymaking. In an editorial, Organiser termed NAC as marking "classic takeover of the 'dimagi Naxals' of governance". "As the armed rebellion has failed miserably, the dimagi variant has taken charge," it said. The editorial alleged that penetrating bureaucracy, policy machinery, legal system, academia, media and NGOs formed part of this "revolutionary strategy".

The weekly stopped short of accusing Sonia or the Congress leadership of links with Maoists, directing its criticism at NAC and the ideological influence the body brought into governance. It also makes a distinction between its definition of "dimagi Naxals" and ordinary agitators or groups seeking reforms, acknowledging issues raised in areas such as education and climate change can be genuine while alleging that such concerns may be appropriated by an ideological core. Jarange set to start his 'final' quota fast today

Quota activist Manoj Jarange is set to begin his "final and decisive" hunger strike at Antarwali Sarati in Jalna district Saturday demanding Kunbi certificates for all eligible Marathas whose records have been traced, reports Mohammed Akhef. On Friday, he iterated govt has "not done enough" to issue certificates to eligible Marathas whose records have been traced, adding that the agitation could be taken to Mumbai if his demands were not met.

Maratha reservation cabinet sub-committee chairperson Vikhe Patil said only a small proportion of applications had been rejected,that certificates were being issued to those who applied and fulfilled the requirements.

'Can he refuse?': HC on minister's appearance

Pointing out that Marie Wilson had appeared in court before he was a minister, the court wondered if he could refuse to appear after becoming one. The court then directed the minister's counsel to inform the date he would appear before the Puducherry court. He sought permission to withdraw the petition on the ground that a fresh chargesheet had been filed and assured to appear after Aug 31. The court then permitted him to withdraw the case. According to the prosecution, on Aug 8, 2022, Wilson broke into the house of his brother and assaulted him and his wife Caroline.
